Last night Justin

did a youtube live on front end geometry. He talked about the ideal front suspension geometry, which was pretty much the XX. Then he went on to say he thinks Kawi KRX has the best production front suspension. How can he think that? I've asked his Instagram with no answers. So please do a comparison of the Kawi KRX vs the Speed UTV.

23m Reply

The KRX suspension leaves a lot to be desired. Aside from the obvious mechanical limitations of ball joints and mounting the shock on the upper control arm.

tcc553 When will the final configurator be completed and operational? Will we still get 2-3 graphic pattern choices to choose from?

42m Reply

We are planning to have the final configurator done for the 15th of July. We will still be offering multiple wrap styles on the LE and 3 colours on the RG editions.

azmtb7 I would like to see detailed images of the RG graphics if possible, the colors looked off on the previous image shown & you couldn't really see the "carbon fiber look" details

The RG Configurator will be live by this weekend. 3 different color option Black Carbon, Blue Carbon and White Carbon. Example of carbon fiber to the right.

"SMART SHOCKS" WON'T FIX MESSED UP GEOMETRY

Less than a degree of bump steer.
Negative camber at droop (and bump).

Positive Camber at full droop Massive bump steer
"Smart Shocks" can't fix fundamental geometry issues
