Awesome video! Amazing to see you take an idea and bring it to fruition. Praying for continued success with this game changing platform (especially with all the aftermarket value already engineered in!)

Really like how high the doors come up to keep your arms in. Love the tires. I have my dream car now but I think I'm going to regret not preordering!

Robbie, you need to hire a film crew that can shoot and edit. Consider the team that handles Bryce Menzies media work. Whoever is doing the work for you now isn't doing your product any favors. Bluntly, it sucks.

Horrible power engagement @ 1:03. Also tie rods out front of the arms is a bad place !

@Pablo ! so funny that artic cat was built that way and had issues and no other brand has theirs out front. Pretty obvious its not a good design!

Hulkkk 2.0 2 days ago

@stroke0187 grab any twig or a wire clothes hanger now push it together see how easy it is to bend. Now do the same only pull and see if you can tear it apart

Just look at class 1, trophy trucks, and stadium trucks tie rod end positions. They all wrong too? Robby didn't design and build artic cat.

Follow along as Bryce Menzies and Andy McMillin take on the most grueling point to point race in the world, the Baja 1000. This year the team finished with a third place after suffering a broken steering box with nearly 45 minutes of down time. We will be back. Thank you Baja! Thanks to all of you for sticking by us all during this incredibly difficult year. Have a great Holiday. - BM7
